H. Taylor, the British open champion like other greatmen, has always been something of a phrase maker," writes Horace Hutchinson in the London Telegraph. "With regard to modera conditions of the open championship he is responsible for two such phrases, and it is singular how eminently he justified them in his latest gallant win of that great title. One, which I believe he centributed to the object dicts, or golf long ago, is that "the way to win a championship is to win it castly." He did that this year, for he had eight strokes to play about with as a credit bulance. He has also mustiated his theory in another championship which he won by leading all his field on the first round and by going stendify further ahead of them with each round they played.

"It seemed that they had only to go on playing long enough for him to be out of sight of the rest altogether. And another dictum which he made quite lately, and with reference to this last championship of all, is that it is easier to win a championship than to qualify. He illustrated that seeming paradox again very strikingly. If he had only stricken the ball once more before getting it into the last hole in the preliminary rounds at Holylake, he would not have been a starter for the actual championship at all.

"It suppose we may take it that this splendid win of Taylor's fifth championship was achieved chiefly by virue of his wonderful power of controlling the ball in a cross wind, and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of driving low to bore into a wind; and of all it was a surprise to see before the second that the played for the distance o

Just now only two clubs seem certain to be in line for new managers next season. Of course, Bill Carrigan is on trial with the Boston Red Sox, but if he makes a good record, chances are he will be back on the job again in 1914. But Stovall is practically sure to lose out at St. Louis, as Col. Robedges thinks he has done mighty little with very promising material. And the slump of the Brooklyn team has just about sealed Bad Bill Dahlen's doom as a manager as far as Charley Ebbetts is concerned.

MAVERICKS MEET BATTERY C TEAM

Representing battery C, sixth artillery, a team of soldiers met the El Paso Mavericks Thursday afternoon at Washington park. Heretofore the games with the soldier teams have been but little more than workouts for the Mavericks, but the consistent challenges from the battery team induced Tommy Smith to arrange, a game as a preliminary match to the Hurley series on Saturday, Sunday and Labor day.

The soldiers are out to vindicate the baseball honor of the army, which has suffered severely at the hands of the Mavericks in the past.

P. Dyer, a sidewheeler, who is halled as luvincible in the army, held the rabber for the artillerymen, and Harry Kane twirled for the Mavericks.

Bert Humphries Proves Good Hurler

Pitcher for the Cubs, When Traded to Chicago, Was Figured as Excess Bag-hage by Garry Herrmann When He Secured Joe Tinker.

C INCINNATI, O., Aug. 28.—When a good young hurler, one who would have done a lot of good for the Reds Reds sent Bert Humphries to the Cubs last winter, when he secured Joe Tinker, the pitcher going as part payment, he though he was sending some excess baggage to Charley Murphy's club. But this has proved anything but true. Humphries is the winning pitcher for the Cubs, with 11 victories and only three defeats, a percentage of .788.

And that's not all, either. Bert is about the only one of the seven players involved in the trade who is doing anything worth while. The Brunis secured Mitchell, Phelan and Kinsley besides the burler. Mitchell has been besides the burler. Mitchell has been shipped to the Pirates; Knisley is in the Southern league, while Phelan subsevery now and then.

Joe Tinker, the main factor in the deal on the Reds' end, has been out of the game a great deal on account of illness, and has not been a sensational success as a manager. Then Chapman and Lowdermilk, the other players who went to the Reds, were traded to Louisville for Miner Brown, who has done only fairly well.

So it looks very much as if Gazry Herrmann, instead of sending away counted 53 tallies.

When the deal was made that sent Tinker to Cincinnati as manager, Charles Webb Murphy and Johnny Evers insisted on having a pitcher. They wanted either Suggs, Benton or Fromme. Herrmann could not see it that way, so they compromised on Humphries. Now the latter has a bet-ter record than either Fromme, Ben-

This baseball lottery started several seasons ago when McGraw paid $11,000 for Rube Marquard. After doing little for two seasons, Rube came around, and now is living up to his price. But for two years he was a complete fallure, and termed as the "$11,000 temon." | The scores: Cactus Colts— | M. Fowler ... 143 | 114 | 114 | 271 | W. "$11,000 lemon" O"Toole "Sale" In High. O'Toole "Sale" Is High.

Then Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pirates, sprung the high mark of all times when he "handed out" $22,500 to the St. Paul management for Marty O'Toole, Marty has yet to prove that he is worth that much.

True, several others have made good, but some have not. Maybe the new but some have not. Maybe the new ones coming up this year will prove wonders; maybe they won't.
